And when he dreamed again, he had a vision in which seven thin ears of grain sprouted on the one stalk, sprouting along with seven ears that were ripe and full of grain. His brothers saw it and said, "See, isn't he dreaming and telling tales?"

He responded, "This isn't a dream; it's a vision of God that I shall reign over you and your land will be subject to me."

Abraham's dream of seven stars, the sun, and the moon, and the dream of the three men confirmed his prophecy. He dreamed again, saying, "If there are ten men from your branch who will repent, I will forgive their sins."

And when he dreamed again, he said to his brothers, "I dreamed again; it was the same vision as before, but this time I dreamed of the sun setting behind the west and rising behind the east, and the moon and the stars at the bottom."

He said to them, "Why are you telling me tales?"

But they replied, "You have not repented of your sins."

And he said to them, "I will surely come to you and repent."

And his brothers said, "We will come to you and repent."

And he said to them, "I will surely repent of my sins and come to you."
